

INS 2023

Villasimius (Sardinia, Italy)

Monday June 19th – Friday June 23th

GENERAL INFORMATION

The meeting will be held in Villasimius, a coastal town in southeast Sardinia about 60 km to the southeast of Cagliari. It is a small town that has become an attractive resort place due to its extended sandy beaches. It has an old history, dating back to Greek and Roman times and was often the target of sea pirates.

The meeting will be held in Hotel Voi Tanga Village.

These are the INS 2023 Scientific Program topics:

- Topic 1 (nine speakers): Open session with no particular focus, organized by the six regions
- Topic 2 (eight speakers): « Calculating Brains », organized by Carlo Semenza and Klaus Willmes
- Topic 3 (six speakers): « Neuroscience in the Real World », organized by Jody Culham and Dora Angelaki

The local organizer is Luciano Fadiga (fdl@unife.it), with the help of Dorothea Weniger.

TRAVEL TO VILLASIMIUS

The closest airport is Cagliari, about 67 km away from Villasimius. It is reached mainly by seasonal flights from numerous European cities with international connections.

SOCIAL PROGRAM

Monday, June 19

20.00: Welcome reception at Hotel VOI Tanka Village

Thursday, June 22 – Excursion – Limited availability

Boat trip on the Matilda II, with swimming and on-board buffet dinner.

Meeting at the port at 16.15

Return to port 21.00

Cost: 50 € per person

A beautiful afternoon of navigation and swimming in the protected area of Capo Carbonara. There is limited space on the boat, so it is necessary that you express your intention to come and the number of accompanying persons who will also attend when you register. Places on board will be in a “first registered, first served” manner. If we get a sufficient number interested in the excursion, we will try to get a second boat.

Friday, June 24

Social dinner at the Hotel Voi Tanka Village. The dinner is included in the registration fee.

For accompanying persons, the price per person for the social dinner will be 40 €. This will be collected during the meeting.
